

Statement on Recognising and Addressing Modern Slavery

At Warida Wholistic Wellness, we are deeply committed to upholding human dignity, equality, and justice. We recognise that modern slavery, in all its forms—including forced labour, human trafficking, debt bondage, and child exploitation—is a grave violation of human rights and a pressing global issue.

As an Indigenous social enterprise founded on the principles of gudu-guduwa (coming together) and ngardi Guwanda (thinking, feeling, listening strongly), we understand the importance of fostering ethical practices and systemic change. We acknowledge that modern slavery is often perpetuated by inequities and systemic structures that marginalise vulnerable populations, particularly First Nations communities.

Our Commitment

Education and Awareness

We are committed to raising awareness about modern slavery through our programs, partnerships, and communications. By promoting understanding of how exploitation manifests, we empower individuals and communities to recognise and respond to these injustices.

Ethical Practices

Warida Wholistic Wellness ensures that our operations and supply chains adhere to the highest ethical standards. We actively engage with suppliers, collaborators, and stakeholders to promote transparency, fairness, and respect for human rights.

Advocacy and Empowerment

As part of our broader mission to decolonise systems and empower communities, we advocate for systemic change to dismantle the structures that perpetuate modern slavery. We stand with survivors, support grassroots initiatives, and prioritise culturally safe and trauma-informed approaches in our work.

Collaboration for Change

We partner with like-minded organisations and individuals to amplify our impact in addressing modern slavery. Together, we aim to create sustainable solutions that protect and uplift vulnerable populations.

Moving Forward

Warida Wholistic Wellness remains steadfast in our dedication to recognising and addressing modern slavery. We encourage all individuals and businesses to join us in creating a world where freedom, equity, and cultural connection thrive, and where no one is left behind.

By weaving together ancient wisdom, modern understanding, and a shared commitment to justice, we believe it is possible to build a future free from exploitation.
